To Whom it May Concern,

I recently had the pleasure of working with Joey Stuckey during Georgia Aquarium's Abilities Celebration this past month. This was our first year taking this event on, and it would not have had nearly the impact without Joey and his band. I first contacted Joey in late 2008 to inquire about playing during the celebration. Although I had no doubt he would contact me back, I was pleased to hear from him the very next day. Not only was he very interested in playing at the Aquarium, he also maintained an easy going, yet highly professional attitude during the course of our conversations.

Joey was very easy to work with and flexible from the beginning. Outside of his amazing performance on site, he also visited the Aquarium a few weeks prior to offer suggestions for the event and facility regarding making the Aquarium more accessible for the visually impaired. A few of his suggestions we hopefully will be implementing in 2009. I have worked with dozens of bands at this facility, and know it can be frustrating if you miss a step in the instructions, or provide less than detailed information about your band needs, equipment, etc. Joey followed every instruction and Aquarium guideline to the letter, and his arrival, set up, performance and tear down went off perfectly without any issues. He and his band were by far the easiest musicians to work with, professional yet casual, and extremely aware of the audience regarding song selection. The set list could not have been chosen better and halfway through the very first song everyone in the Aquarium atrium was dancing along.

The Joey Stuckey Band ended our four day celebration with a bang and energy to carry us through the rest of the weekend! We will be asking them back for next year's celebration, and hope to see them throughout the year at other corporate events/functions. I personally will be recommending Joey Stuckey for performances and recording work to anyone who asks. You'll be hooked on Joey after your first conversation, and hooked on the Joey Stuckey Band the second they take the stage!

Yours Sincerely,

Carrington Moore
